DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Stringer (4,819,987).

Stringer discloses an extendable footrest or leg rest for a passenger seat. An actuation assembly 30 is the driving means for extending the leg rest. In the disclosure, it should be noted “many types of actuation assemblies are feasible” but “only a preferred hydraulic assembly will be described” (col.2, lines 19-21). The actuation assembly 30 includes a pressure relief system, “which permits retraction of footrest 20 when a predetermined load is applied on the footrest 20 toward the stowed position without actuating the control button” (col.3, lines 2-5). Note that since the pressure release system immediately retracts when a predetermined load is applied, it therefore becomes an alarming means for the passenger that unnecessary force is applied. Furthermore, the retracting footrest 20 has a stopping means in the stowed position, “the actuator 34 may contract and the footrest 20 may swing toward its stowed position” (col.3, lines 26-27).

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed August 5, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Art Unit: 3636

The pressure release system of Stringer “permits retraction of the leg rest upon application of a given force” (col.3, lines 50-51). Stringer’s invention includes all the structure for the claimed invention. Stringer does teach of detecting a force opposite the direction of the inclining movement. The inclining movement is in the upward direction while after the force is applied against the leg rest (in the downward direction) the leg rest retracts to the retracted position, which is downward. Note, the term “during” imparts no additional structural limitations to the claim, in regards to Stringer’s invention, and is given little patentable weight.

Conclusion

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
